

THE HISTORY FACTORY

A HERITAGE MANAGEMENT AGENCY

Book Author

The History Factory is seeking experienced Book Authors to research and write historically based publications for our corporate clients. Our authors provide industry expertise and serve as subject matter experts in one or more of the following industries: Banking and Finance, Insurance, Science and Technology (particularly Biotech) and Healthcare.

In addition to being great storytellers, our authors work collaboratively with our clients and members of the internal project team, including content and image researchers, editors and others. Outstanding writing, editing, communication and analytical skills are required, as well as the ability to develop and align key messaging and content with our clients' strategic business objectives. The position requires strong business acumen and an understanding of communications strategies that support corporate goals.

Self-motivated individuals with a strong sense of personal initiative, a high level of curiosity and a proven ability to apply focused problem-solving skills in developing book-length works are encouraged to apply.
